

Photo of the Week

Lambert-St. Louis International Airport®
July 24, 2009

“Delta Transition”

New kiosks greet Delta and Northwest Travelers at Lambert.

While the official merger between Delta and Northwest Airlines will not become official for several more months, the consolidation of their operations at Lambert took a giant leap forward this week. New Delta signs, counters and computer kiosks now greet passengers for both airlines; they will now be served from one location. Delta has increased the number of self check-in kiosks. It's also adding scanner technology that will allow passengers who have pre-printed boarding passes to bypass kiosks and go straight to the ticket counter to check in their bags.

®

©2009 Lambert-St. Louis International Airport · Public Information Office