

Photo of the Week

Lambert-St. Louis International Airport®

Sept. 11, 2009

“McDonnell Moved”

A plane takes off over the now closed section of old McDonnell Blvd. The roadway was relocated to improve safety at the east end of Lambert's airfield.

After months of earth work and paving, the new section of McDonnell Blvd. officially opened this week on the east end of Lambert's airfield. The project to relocate the roadway farther east was part of a nationwide FAA effort to enhance the safety zones at the end of runways. This project accomplishes that goal by increasing the distance between the runways and motorists who use McDonnell Blvd. The new 8/10 mile section of McDonnell connects at a new three-way stop sign with Air Cargo Road.

®

©2009 Lambert-St. Louis International Airport · Public Information Office