“Hoop Stars”

Ohio State players arrive at Lambert in advance of their “Sweet 16” game in St. Louis.

Lambert welcomed four “Sweet 16” teams to St. Louis this week. Ohio State, Tennessee, Northern Iowa and Michigan State are all hoping to survive the Men’s NCAA Basketball Midwest Regional at the Edward Jones Dome. Players flew in on charter flights on Wednesday along with program supporters and school staff. “Sweet 16” games in St. Louis are scheduled for Friday with the Midwest Regional final set for Sunday. The winner moves on to the Final Four. More than 38,000 visitors are driving or flying into St. Louis for the games.
